What's the Web and how does it work?

Many people confuse between the term "Web" and "internet" but they are not the same at all. The internet is a global Network of networks meanwhile the web is a collection of information that is accessed via Internet. The web works by two things called a server and a client; a server is a powerful computer that provides data, services etc.. to other computers called clients over a network(The internet).

Why do I want to be a web developer ?

I want to help my mother in her job. By creating a website for her page, it can help her and bring in more clients (btw credit to my mom if you have women or girls who like beauty salons, spas, or hammams, don't hesitate to come!! <3 ig: belladonna1600) Also, to start my own business, many of my friends have started theirs, and I'm a bit jealous

Why did i choose to learn web development?

to be honest,it seems so fun
and i want to learn new skills
such as problem-solving
